THE NORTH AMERICAN (May 22, 1902)

Horts of Colored Man Withdraw Objections to Peculiar Will.

COMPROMISE ISMADE

Objections to the will of Colonel John McKee, the wealthlest negro in the country, who died last month, bequeathing property worth $2,000,000 in trust to Archbishop Ryan for founding of a college for orphans, were formally withdrawn yesterday by the heirs.

The will was admitted to probate, and Archbishop Ryan qualified an executor

Archbishop Byan qualified an executor and trustee. The estate, it is said, will be worth $5,000,000 in ten years.

The terms of the compromise by which Colonel McKee's daughter and six grand-children, who were practically cut off by the will, withdrew their caveat against the probate of the Instrument are not made public. Ex-Judge Gordon, who represents the heirs, and Attorney Joseph P. McCullen, representing Archilishop Byan, refused to discurs the case, and the heirs had been enjoined not to talk.

It is said that the daughter, Mrs. Abble Syphax, and the grandchildren will receive bountiful annotices from the estate.

Yearly Income of $50.

Under the terms of the will Colonel Me-

Yearly Income of $50.

Under the terms of the will Colonel MeKee's daughter, Mrs. Syphax, was given a little cottage on Patton street and an annuity of $20. The gradehildren were each given a yearly income of $50. The "John McKee College," which is to be established by Archbishop Hyan, cannot be built until after the death of Mrs. Syphax. This institution is to be received at Croyden, Pa., and is to be modeled after Girard College.

Colonel McKee was a member of the Presbyterian Church for years, but he not only mamed a Catholic Archbishop as executor of the estate, but his will provides that the college shall be under the direction of a board of ten men chosen by Catholic clerkymen in the diocese.

Valuable Coal Lands.

The estate consists of 49 houses in Phil

Valuable Coal Lands.

The estate consists of 499 houses in Philadelphia, 200,000 acres of coal and oil land in West Virginia, Illinois and Kentucky, 4500 acres developed farm land near Mc-Kee City, N. J., and 68 acres of land near Croyden, Pa.

Offices of the estate will be opened in this city.

Colonel McKee died at 1000 Lombard street, where he had lived for years. There he had his "den," where he directed the affairs of his vast estate. His daughter still lives there, although the will provided that she should move away at his death.